PREFACE.

THE Proprietors, in submitting to their Subscribers and the Public the present (being the Fifth) Edition of the SIX HOME COUNTIES DIRECTORY, trust that it may be found to be equal in accuracy to the previous Editions.

Several additions have been made to the present volume: lists of Hundreds and Poor Law Unions have been included in the Topography of each County; it is stated under each Parish in what Hundred, Union and County Court District it is situate, as well as the Diocese, Archdeaconry and Rural Deanery; and the College and University of every Beneficed Clergyman have been given. The Post Office Savings Banks have been noticed; the names of the Parish Clerks are given under each Parish; and lists of Farm Bailiffs of gentlemen farming their own land have been added.

The bulk of the Directory has again increased considerably: the Third Edition consisted of 1,420 pages; the Fourth had increased to 1,752 pages; and the present contains 1,986 pages. The value of the Directory, however, will depend principally on the fact that it has been most carefully corrected, every parish having been personally visited by the Agents during the last six months.

The Proprietors have again to return their thanks to the Clergymen, Clerks of the Peace, Magistrates' Clerks, Registrars, and other Gentlemen who have assisted the Agents while collecting the information.

ESSEX.

ESSEX is one of the metropolitan shires, and takes its name from the commonwealth of the East Saxons (one of the English hordes which settled in South Britain), and of which Middlesex, London, and Hertfordshire afterwards formed part. After the Euskardians and Celts had been driven out, it was held by the Belgic tribe of the Trinobantes until the Roman inroad. Of the Romans it was a great seat, and here was their city of Camulodunum. The Welsh again becoming masters, were driven out by the East Saxons. The chief clans concerned in the settlement were the Tilling, Halling, Denning, Thurring, Benning, Billing, Horning, Manning, Totting, Bucking, and Dunning, being the same as those engaged in the settlement of East Anglia. In 823 it came under the sway of the West Saxons under Egbert, though more than once given up to the Danes. In the great Civil War Essex sided with the Parliament, and formed a powerful federation.

The shire is of an irregular shape, being in its greatest length, from north-east to south-west, 63 miles. It contains 1,533 square miles, or 1,060,549 acres, being the tenth English shire for size. In 1851 its population was 369,318, being an increase of 24,399 over 1841. The number of houses in 1851 was 77,480; of males, 185,399; of females, 183,919. On the east and south-east it is bounded by the North Sea; on the south by the Thames, which lies between it and Kent; on the west by the Lea against Middlesex, and by the Stort against Hertfordshire; on the north by the Cambridgeshire border; and on the north-east by the Stour against Suffolk. Thus there is a navigable belt from Sudbury round by sea, and so to Bishop Stortford. On the east the shore is broken by the deep friths and creeks of the Stour, Colne, Blackwater, Crouch, and Thames. The Thames flows from London to the North Sea, having several quays, but no great haven on the Essex shore. The Lea, and its head, the Stort, are navigable, passing through Bishop Stortford, Harlow, and Waltham Abbey. The Roding rises in Easton park, and runs for about 36 miles past Ongar, to Ilford, where it becomes navigable, and, passing Barking, joins the Thames. The Bourne brook, 12 miles long, falls into the Thames at Dagenham. The Ingerbourne rises in South Weald, and falls in near Rainham; the Marditch, 12 miles long, forms a creek at Purfleet. The Crouch, 25 miles long, waters south-east Essex, and is navigable from Hull bridge to the North Sea; Burnham is its port; and the Broomhill is a creek 10 miles long, and navigable for 7 miles to near Rochford. The Chelmer, 46 miles long, rising near Debden, passes Dunmow and Chelmsford, where it is made navigable, and flows to Maldon, its port, receiving the Ter, 13 miles long, the Wid and Cann, 14 miles long, and the Sandon brook, 10 miles long. Near Maldon it joins the Blackwater, which has for its feeder the Podsbrook. The Colne, 35 miles long, rises near Birdbrook, becomes navigable at Colchester, and, receiving the Roman river, flows into the North Sea. The Holland creek falls into the North Sea at Little Holland. The Stour is about 50 miles long, becomes navigable at Sudbury, and passes the ports of Manningtree and Harwich to the North Sea. In the north-west the Cam and Slade brooks pass into Cambridgeshire.

The shire has much rich meadow grounds on the shores of the brooks, and marsh lands on the friths and creeks. On the shore are many marsh islands, like those of Holland; Canvey, Foulness, Wallasea, Mersea, Horsea, Havengore, and Potten, are the greatest. Much of the shore is sheltered against the tides and storms by dikes and sea-walls, as it lies low. The inland is hilly and well timbered. The highest hills of the London clay are High Beech, near Waltham Abbey, 760 feet high; Danbury, 700 feet high; Tiptree Heath, near Witham, 700 feet high, and Laingdon hills, 620 feet high.

It appears that, next to the Church of England, the most powerful sects are the Independents, and then the Baptists and Methodists.

Essex, of which Chelmsford is the assize town, is in the Home Circuit, and in the district of the London Court of Bankruptcy. Part of Becontree hundred, viz., Barking, East Ham, West Ham, Little Ilford, Low Leyton, Walthamstow, Wanstead, St. Mary Woodford, and Chingford, is within the bounds of the Central Criminal Court and Metropolitan Police, being suburbs of the metropolis. It is in two divisions, each returning two members to Parliament—North Essex, with a population of 189,435, of which Braintree is the seat of election, and South Essex, with a population of 179,883, of which Chelmsford is the seat of election. The shire forms nineteen hundreds and one liberty. Each division contains the following hundreds:—The Northern Division—Clavering, Dunmow, Freshwell, Hinckford, Lexden, Tendring, Thurstable, Uttlesford, Winstree, and Witham; and the Southern Division—Barstable, Beacontree, Chafford, Chelmsford, Dengie, Harlow, Ongar, Rochford, and Waltham; and of the Liberty of Havering; and four boroughs—Colchester, Maldon, Harwich, and Saffron Walden; the first three are parliamentary, and return two members each. There are seventeen Unions—Billericay, Braintree, Chelmsford, Colchester, Dunmow, Epping, Halstead, West Ham, Lexden and Winstree, Maldon, Ongar, Orsett, Rochford, Romford, Saffron Walden, Tendring, and Witham, besides townships under other shires. There are about 500 townships, of which 400 are parishes. The shire is ecclesiastically under the Bishop of Rochester, in the two archdeaconries of Colchester and Essex, with the exception of ten metropolitan parishes, which are under the Bishop of London, and Ballingdon, a suburb of Sudbury, in Suffolk, which is in the diocese of Ely. There are several good towns, as Colchester, Chelmsford, Braintree, Harwich, Maldon, Barking, Saffron Walden, Witham, Halstead, Romford, Brentwood, and Southend, besides market and small towns. There are no cathedrals or great endowments.

The Essex men are mostly employed in husbandry and stock feeding, and only a few in manufactures of silk, &c., at Braintree, Halstead, and Coggeshall. A mill has also lately been erected at Chelmsford for its manufacture. Some of the finest moire-antiques are also made at Colchester. The minerals worked up are chalk for lime, septaria for Roman cement, clay for bricks, flint for guns, and salt made from the sea, in all of which there is some trade. Seeds are grown at Tillingham. The towns on the shores are very busy in the oyster and other fisheries, and in shipping corn, coals, and timber. The Colne fishery is of great value and importance. It furnishes the finest native oysters, and belongs to Colchester, that town deriving an income of about £700 a year from the licenses annually granted to dredgermen; and there is no doubt the revenue derived from this source might be most materially increased. The sea-ports of the county are Manningtree, Harwich, Brightlingsea, Colchester, Salcott, Maldon, Bradwell, Burnham, Rochford, Wakering, Southend, Leigh, Grays, Purfleet, and Barking. The Victoria docks and the Metropolitan steam docks are in Plaistow level, and a line connects Thames Haven with the Tilbury line. Steamers run from London to Harwich, and communicate with Purfleet, Grays, Tilbury, Southend, and Walton. Southend and Tilbury are great steamboat stations. Steamers go up the Orwell from Harwich to Ipswich. Harwich, Southend and Walton are bathing places. At Waltham Abbey are Government powder works; at Purfleet, powder stores; at Warley, the East India Barracks; at Tilbury, a garrison; and at Shoeburyness is an extensive practice-ground for Government artillery of the largest calibre.

The railways of Essex belong to the Eastern Counties direction; one great branch, under the name of the Cambridge line, going from London north, by Waltham Abbey, Hoddesdon (with a branch to Hertford), Bishop Stortford, and Saffron Walden, to Cambridge, Newmarket, the north and east of England; and the other north-east, by Ilford, Romford, Brentwood, Ingatestone, Chelmsford, Witham, and Colchester, to Ipswich, with branches to Maldon, Braintree, Sudbury, Manningtree, Harwich, Hadleigh, Halstead, and Castle Hedingham. In the south-west, a short line runs from Stratford to a station called North Woolwich, on the Thames, and another from Stratford to Barking, Purfleet, Grays, Tilbury, Leigh, and Southend. The Tendring railway, from Colchester to Wivenhoe, is expected to be open in August.

The stations on the Cambridge line are *Stratford, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ miles; Lea Bridge, 5 $\frac{1}{4}$; *Waltham, 14 $\frac{3}{4}$; Roydon, 22; Burnt Mill, 24 $\frac{1}{2}$; *Harlow, 26 $\frac{1}{4}$; Sawbridgeworth, 28 $\frac{1}{2}$; *Bishop Stortford, 32 $\frac{1}{4}$; Stanstead, 35 $\frac{1}{2}$; *Elsenham, 37 $\frac{1}{2}$; Newport, 41 $\frac{3}{4}$; *Audley End, for Saffron Walden, 43 $\frac{1}{2}$; *Chesterford and Newmarket junction, 47 $\frac{1}{2}$.

The stations on the Colchester line and branches are, Mile-end, 1 mile; *Stratford, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ miles; Forest gate, 5; *Ilford, for Barking, 7; *Romford, 12; *Brentwood, 17 $\frac{3}{4}$; *Ingatestone, 23 $\frac{1}{4}$; *Chelmsford, 29 $\frac{1}{4}$; *Witham, 38 $\frac{1}{4}$; Wickham Bishops, 40 $\frac{3}{4}$; Bulford, 41 $\frac{1}{2}$; Langford, 43; Maldon, 44; Braintree and Bocking, 44 $\frac{1}{2}$; *Kelvedon, 41 $\frac{3}{4}$; Marks Tey, 43 $\frac{1}{4}$; Chappel, 49 $\frac{3}{4}$; Colne, 52; Halstead, 56; Castle Hedingham, 59 $\frac{1}{4}$; Bures, 53 $\frac{1}{4}$; Sudbury, 58; *Colchester, 51 $\frac{1}{4}$; Ardleigh, 55 $\frac{1}{2}$; Manningtree, 59; Mistley, 60 $\frac{3}{4}$; Bradfield, 62; Wrabness, 64 $\frac{1}{2}$; Dovercourt, 69 $\frac{1}{4}$; Harwich, 69 $\frac{3}{4}$; Bentley, 62 $\frac{1}{2}$; Capel, 64 $\frac{1}{2}$; Roydon, 67 $\frac{1}{2}$; Hadleigh, 69 $\frac{3}{4}$; Westerfield, 71 $\frac{1}{2}$; Bealings, 75 $\frac{1}{4}$ miles.

The principal stations on the Tilbury line are, Plaistow, East Ham, Barking, 8; Little Ilford, Rainham, 13; Purfleet, 16 $\frac{1}{4}$; Grays, 20 $\frac{1}{4}$; Tilbury, 23; Low-street, Stanfords-le-Hope, Pitsea, Benfleet, Leigh and Southend.

There is also the Colne valley railway, commencing at the Chapel junction, on the Sudbury branch line. The stations are at Earl's Colne, Halstead, Castle Hedingham, and Yeldham; with an extension rapidly progressing as far as Haverhill, Suffolk.

Those thus * marked, are likewise stations for the Electric Telegraph.

DEDHAM is a town and parish, mentioned in "Domesday Survey," which is on the navigable river Stour, 6½ miles north-north-east of Colchester, 4 west of Manningtree, 13 south-west from Ipswich, 58 from London, and 3 from the Ardleigh station on the Eastern Union railway, and in the Lexden union and hundred, Rochester diocese, Colchester archdeaconry, Dedham deanery, and is in the Colchester county court district. It had formerly a market, and in the reign of Richard II. was famous as one of the chief seats of the clothing trade. A fair is held on Easter Tuesday, and here was formerly a market on Tuesdays. The area of the parish is 2,551 acres, and the population in 1861 was 1,734. The town consists of one street, and is situated in a picturesque valley. The church of the Virgin Mary is a large building in the Perpendicular style, with a fine tower containing 8 bells. The living is a vicarage, value £170 yearly, in the gift of the Duchy of Lancaster, and held by the Rev. George Murray, M.A. Annexed to the church is a lectureship endowed with great tithes, held by the Rev. Dr. Taylor. The Independents have here a meeting house. In this parish, there are two endowed schools, the Free Grammar school, founded in 1571, by William Littlebury, and chartered by Queen Elizabeth, in 1575, of which the Rev. Gerald T. Lermitt, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge, is the head master. The number of foundation scholars is limited to twenty, who are appointed by the governors, with the advice of the head-master. Boys residing in the parishes of Dedham, Ardleigh, Great Bromley, and Bradfield, in the County of Essex, and Stratford, St. Mary, in the County of Suffolk are alone eligible. The other, called the English school, founded in the year 1610, of which Mr. W. Wardell Johnson, M.R.C.P., is the master. There are also National and British schools. There is also an assembly room. Hill house is the seat of Hatfield James Back, Esq.

LEYTON, or Low Leyton, and LEYTON-STONE.

LEYTON, or Low Leyton, is a parish adjoining Walthamstow and Stratford, pleasantly situated on the banks of the river Lea, from which its name is derived; it is in the bishopric of London, London archdeaconry, and Barking deanery, South Essex, Beacontree hundred, West Ham union, and the jurisdiction of the Central Criminal Court, and in the Metropolitan (N.E.) suburban district. It formerly belonged to King Harold, and was a Roman establishment, supposed to be the site of the ancient Durolitum; many Roman antiquities have been discovered, as foundations of buildings, a subterranean arched gateway, coins, &c. It is $5\frac{1}{2}$ miles from London, and is a station of the Eastern Counties railway. The area of this suburban parish is 2,241 acres; the population (including 572 in the West Ham Union Workhouse) in 1861 was 4,794 (including Leytonstone). The church of St. Mary is a small plain brick building; it contains tombs of Strype, the antiquary, who was vicar here for nearly 70 years; Goring, Earl of Norwich; William Bowyer, the celebrated printer; Sir Michael Hicke, &c. The living is a vicarage, value £450 per annum, with residence. John Pardoe, Esq., is the patron, and the Rev. John Pardoe, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge, is the vicar. Sir Thomas Roe, an Oriental traveller, was born here in 1580. Here are a meeting-house for Wesleyans, eight almshouses, and National schools for boys, girls, and infants.

KNOTT'S GREEN and Lea Bridge are the names of localities in the parish, which were formerly treated as hamlets, but they are now portions of the whole.

At RUCKHOLTS, obscured by trees, are the remains of ancient entrenchments, with a square double embankment, 100 feet diameter, secured by a moat.

TEMPLE MILLS, on the Lea, are said to have belonged to the Knights Templars. The whole are now demolished, and the Waterworks supply their place. This is in the Eastern postal district.

LEYTONSTONE is a hamlet of Leyton, running parallel to Leyton, with many fine suburban villas. On the 2nd February, 1845, it was constituted an ecclesiastical district. It is 2 miles from West Ham, and $5\frac{1}{2}$ from Whitechapel, on the road from Stratford, over the Forest, to Epping and Ongar. The church is a handsome building; it has a light and graceful square tower at the western end, from the summit of which rise four spires, with crocketed finials. The edifice occupies a commanding position on the high road from Stratford to Epping. There is a police station. There are likewise an Independent chapel, National school for boys and girls, and a British school for girls. The population in 1861, which is given with Leyton, was 1,824. The living is a perpetual curacy, in the gift of John Pardoe, Esq., and held by the Rev. Henry Herbert Evans, M.A., of Magdalene Hall, Oxford, chaplain to the Earl of Essex. This parish is in the North-Eastern postal district.

STRATFORD, or STRATFORD LANGTHORNE, the ford of the street or Roman way from London to Colchester, is a suburb of London, and lies on the east side of the navigable river Lea and on the Eastern Counties railway, of which the station is in Angel lane, whence the Northern and Eastern railway, and the Blackwall and Woolwich branch diverge. It is $3\frac{2}{3}$ miles from Shoreditch, is a ward of the parish of West Ham, and in the union of that name, diocese of London, South Essex, and is also a metropolitan district, in the jurisdiction of the Central Criminal Court and Metropolitan Police, and in the Bow county court district. It is united to Stratford-le-Bow by a bridge over the Lea. In 1851 the population was 10,586. The district church, dedicated to St. John, built in 1833, is at the junction of the old Newmarket and Colchester roads; the Rev. William Holloway is perpetual curate. In 1851 another church was erected, called Christ Church, situated in High-street, of which the Rev. James Martin Kennedy, A.K.C., is incumbent.

In 1135 an abbey for Cistercian monks was founded here, the abbot of which was a lord of Parliament; and of which the income at the Dissolution was £573 15s. 6d. There are considerable remains of the building. There are chapels for Roman Catholics, Baptists, and Wesleyans, and schools on the National and British systems; also Industrial schools of the Whitechapel union, erected in 1854 in Forest-lane. There is a police station at West Ham. On the river are flour mills, chemical and print works, distilleries, and other factories. Under Queen Mary I., a man and woman were burnt to death here for high treason and heresy. In 1692 George Edwards, the naturalist, was born here; and here, also, he was buried. In excavating the ground for the railway, a stone coffin was discovered, close to the surface of the earth, near Maryland Point.

HUDSON'S TOWN is a part of Stratford, adjoining the railway station. This is in the Eastern metropolitan postal district.
